

At All Speeds For All Needs

The performance of your motor depends largely on correct lubrication.

Polarine

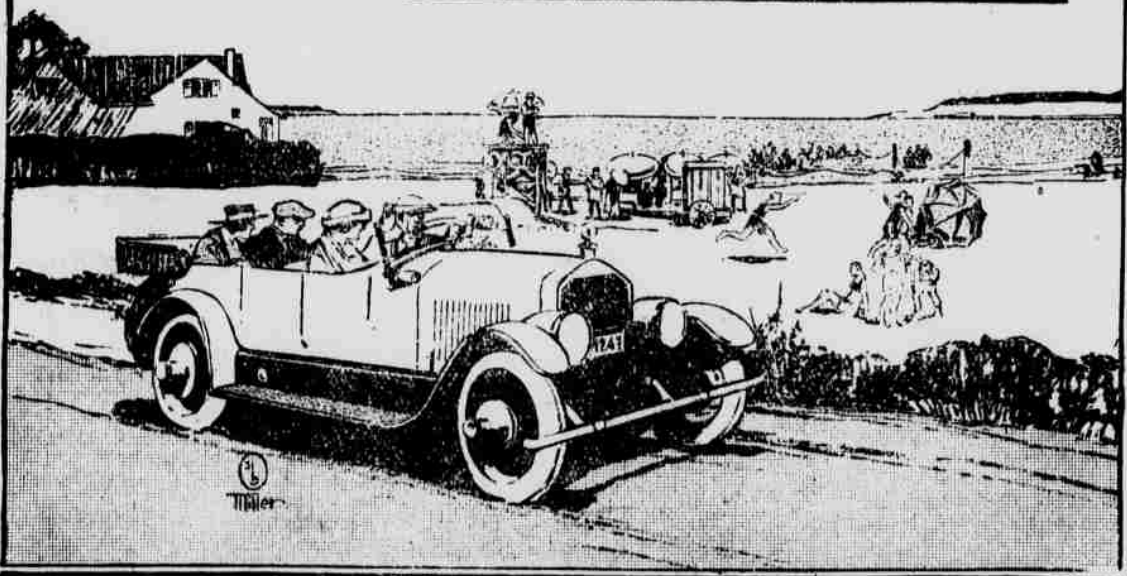

keeps compression tight. It develops maximum power from the fuel, whether you are running throttled down to a leisurely pace, or tearing along at top speed. It cushions all bearings and engaging parts against wear.

Use Polarine on your motor, and your fuel, oil and repair costs will stay down.

For transmissions and differentials use Polarine Gear Oil.

Washington, D. C.
June 30, 1920.

Eugene A. Doney,
East Hardwick, Vt.

My dear sir:
It is deeply gratifying to receive your fine letter of June 19th, inclosing a check for $37.29, contributed by you and Mr. Rose and by the pupils in your school toward our memorial. I beg to assure you and the children of my profound gratitude for the evidence of loyalty and devotion to the memory of those brave men who gave their lives for our country. They have made it possible to honor their sacrifice and I am sure that each one will be uplifted by the consciousness of having done something that was worthy and noble. A separate receipt will be sent by the Memorial Association to each contributor. With the assurance of my high regards, I am,

Cordially yours,
C. P. Sumnerall,
Maj. Gen. U. S. Army

service was held at South Walden in the forenoon, similar to the Walden service. Albert W. Stevens gave a very interesting address on the Aviation service of which he was a member overseas. He especially emphasized the value of the Christian Soldier. The male quartet and orchestra and special choir gave some very good selections at both services.

Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Kingsbury and daughter, Mrs. Newton, and children, attended church at Walden and called on relatives Sunday.

PEACHAM

Death of Mrs. Mary Johnson Semple away to the higher life at New York June 12. She was the second of eight daughters of Leonard and Betsey (Merrill) Johnson and was born in Peacham May 28, 1827. She had one brother, Samuel Merrill Johnson, who died many years ago at Maryville, Ill. One sister, Elizabeth Johnson Allen is still living at Weston, Mass. She said she would live to be 93 the age her father reached. This she did with fifteen days added. For a year past she has been ill in body but her mind has seemed alert as in former years. With a typewriter she wrote her sister weekly and enjoyed the friends who called to see her. Her one child, Oliver Cheever Semple is a lawyer in New York city. Accompanied by his wife he came to Peacham for the burial. Her sister with her son, Grant Merrill Palmer, also her nephew, Charles Clark, and from Boston and with other relatives and friends attended the service held in the beautiful old meeting at Peacham.

These were conducted by the Congregational minister, Rev. Mr. Warner. She was laid to rest by her husband who died nearly sixty years ago. Mr. Semple had completed a machine for cutting and trimming books and papers and had applied for a patent. Mrs. Semple had felt confidence in the future of this machine and she like the brave strong woman she was undertook the manufacture and sale of her husband's invention. In those days it was hard for a woman to do what heretofore men had done. She shrank from the task but by her energy and courage succeeded in placing these machines in many of the largest publishing houses in the country. Mrs. Semple was one of the early band of pioneers who worked for woman's suffrage. In her ninety-second year she cast her first ballot in a New York city election.
